

Jef Boes

Jef Boes is a Photographer and Director represented by Initials L.A.
Jef is known and admired for his ability of capturing the beauty in the ordinary. His passion is to document people and places like a road trip, always with a story that can relate to anyone.

PORTFOLIO

01.10.2010 — 23.02.2020

Jef Boes has been interested in the United States since forever. In 2012, he captured the election battle between Romney and Obama. That same year, he collaborated on the documentary 'Voices from Iowa' in which 'the average American' tells his story. These two stories make up American Identities I. Four years later, Donald Trump took on the presidency. Jef went on a road trip through Trumpland to find out more about the Trump supporters. This resulted in American Identities II and the documentary 'The Good President'.

REPORTAGE SUD TIROL

BOXING WOEST
Woest, that's Junior Bauwens and Daphné Grillaert.
Two passionate coaches who put their experience and their teeth into high level sports.
Woest, is a training room in Ghent that inhales oxygen and exhales boxing.
Woest is for everyone who's tired of sitting still and wants to move forward.
Woest, is sweating, falling, hurting, getting up again and then walk through a wall.

REPORTAGE OLIVA CIGARS / FROM HACIENDA TO TABOLISA
The Vandermarliere family has been manufacturing cigars in Belgium for the best part of 100 years.
In 2016 they purchased the renowned Nicaraguan handmade cigarmaker, Oliva.
Since then, they have the intent on creating a new beginning for this old company.
Vast acres of swaying green tobacco leaves now join the legacy of the family.
Along with the purchase of three farms in Nicaragua, there has been massive investment in the infrastructure and people of this proud nation.
The just-opened Tabolisa 1 production facility in Esteli, can sort, ferment, age, blend, roll and store tobacco on an unprecedented scale.
